

GROUP PLAY USING CHILD-CENTERED PLAY THERAPY PRINCIPLES AND SKILLS

By Ms Lau Suet Ha, Lottie B.Soc.Sc. & M.Ed.

About the Program

This program is a continuation of the series of training courses on Child-centered Play Therapy (CCPT) conducted by Ms Lottie Lau and organized by the Department of Social Work of CUHK.

Helping professionals conducting CCPT may sometimes need to conduct the therapy in a group context, placing more than one child in the process. Such a group therapy modality would be especially helpful when working on children's difficulties mainly related to socialization rather than personal ones(Axline, 1969; Ginott, 1961; Landreth, 2001). In group play therapy, therapists would need to acquire therapeutic responses facilitative of children's self-expressions not only on an individual level but in a relationship context as well. And, principles and skills behind these therapeutic responses, apart from being socialization-enhancing for children, could be relationship-strengthening between parents and children too. (Information provided by Lottie Lau.)

Objectives

- 1. To widen CCPT practitioners' perspectives in using the therapy from an individual context to a group one.
- 2. To prepare participants to conduct child-centered group play therapy by equipping them with related concepts, principles, and skills.

A 21-hr training course, in which explorations and discussions will be made around:

- 1. Theoretical concepts of child-centered group play therapy, including its rationale, beliefs, and goals;
- 2. Practical issues around child-centered group play therapy, such as principles of case selection, considerations of group arrangements, and group dynamics to be observed; and
- 3. The use of CCPT principles, skills, and facilitative responses in a relationship context:
  - a. where more than one child is placed in the special play time.
  - b. where the parent is present in the child's special play time.

Trainer

Ms Lau Suet Ha, Lottie is a pioneer who has introduced and cultivated the approach of Childcentered Play Therapy in Hong Kong since the early 1990s.

Ms LAU received her bachelor's degree in social work from the Chinese University of Hong Kong. She pursued her postgraduate counseling studies in The University of North Texas, where she specialized in learning Child-centered Play Therapy from Dr Garry Landreth, an internationally renowned scholar who developed the therapy based on Virginia Axline's nondirective approach.

Ms LAU has more than 25 years of clinical experience in counseling work. She has been particularly keen and well versed in steering psychological healing in emotionally disturbed children by means of Child-centered Play Therapy (CCPT). In the 1990s, in addition to her formal teaching in tertiary education, Ms LAU began to spread the concept of CCPT in Hong Kong by pioneering systematic training programs, of various levels, on the therapy. Over the years, Ms LAU has laid down the cornerstone of the therapy in the local scene, through hundreds of related training courses conducted with continual refinements. Accumulatively, over 10,000 participants, including around 4,950 helping professionals and 5,100 parents, have completed the basic level of play therapy training that she conducted. Throughout the years, Ms Lau has received numerous positive comments, and her courses have always been fully enrolled with enthusiastic recommendations from participants.
